

David J. Sheehan

David J. Sheehan is a trial lawyer who has tried cases in federal and state courts throughout the country before both judges and juries, principally in the areas of intellectual property, product liability and business litigation. Mr. Sheehan has vast experience in trying complex cases, and he brings a deep and broad understanding of preparing cases for litigation and counseling clients accordingly.

Since December 2008, Mr. Sheehan has served as lead counsel for the global representation of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (“SIPC”) liquidation of Bernard L. Madoff Securities LLC in connection with one of the largest financial frauds in recorded history. Mr. Sheehan oversees and manages the multiple legal teams in connection with the global investigations and litigations seeking tens of billions of dollars in worldwide asset recovery from financial institutions, hedge funds and hedge fund fiduciaries, fund of funds, and investment managers.

In addition to this experience, Mr. Sheehan served as a Lieutenant in The United States Navy Judge Advocate General’s Corps from 1969 to 1973.

Mr. Sheehan is a fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers and a Life Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. He is recognized by his peers as one of the leading trial lawyers in the New York metropolitan area. He was named one of the Top 100 Lawyers in the Metropolitan New York area in the New York Times edition of “Super Lawyers” in 2007. He has been named one of the Best Lawyers for business litigation in the states of New York and New Jersey for several years.

In the pro bono arena, Mr. Sheehan is deeply committed to providing legal services in support of the public interest and the rights of our citizens. His contributions throughout the course of his career were honored when he was awarded the Thurgood Marshall Award from the Association of the Bar of the City of New York for his work on death penalty cases.
